ROOSEVELT HAS A ROYAL RIVAL IN HUNTING.

BROTHER OF KING EDWARD LEAVES FOR HUNTING JAUNT TO EAST AFRICA.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Theodore Roosevelt will soon have a royal rival in the sport of slaying big game in east Africa, in the person of His Royal Highness Arthur William Patrick Albert, the Duke of Connaught, brother of King Edward. The Duke and Duchess, accompanied by their son, Prince Arthur, and their daughter, Princess Patricia, and a party of a dozen others, left today on steamer Admiral Dewey. It will take them from Marseilles to Jibuti. There the royal party will proceed by Kilimai, the new port on Mombasa Island, reaching that place about February 20th. The shooting expedition in the jungles of East Africa will occur about the same ground as that of former president Roosevelt. The Princess Patricia has visited East Africa before, as has the Duke. It would have ill that one of the reasons for taking the Princess on this trip is to give her opportunity to forget for a few how for a newly Britisher of no title. The Princess was born in 1883 while her brother, Prince Arthur Patrick, is a year older.

The Duke of Connaught is now on the windy side of sixty, but is still hale both mentally and physically. He is said to be an expert shot and very fond of hunting big game.

According to plans made, the party upon setting off the coast of British East Africa, will take train for Nairobi, which town they will reach the following day. After a day at Nairobi the Duke's party will proceed to Nyeri. It is the intention of both the Duke and Princess Patricia to accompany the Duke during the whole of his expedition. They are expected to return to England about the middle of next May.

A large supply of books were taken over also collapsible tables for bridge and other games.

A well known expert in matters concerning expeditions of this character, estimates the expenses of the royal party at $35,000.

"The attendants required for an ordinary shooting expedition would be about thirty-six in number, but this party must can hardly be done with less than one hundred, because everything in the equipment will be on a much larger scale than is usual. There will be a greater and more extensive line of foods carried, too, and more meats and general accessories.

"People have little idea of what goes with the equipment of a shooting party. This is what goes to make up the cameras and its supplies for one year, as supplied by the chief dealer who caters for big game shoots:

"One boatlaus, one personal boy, one gun bearer, two askaris, one cook, thirty porters.

"Now when you have your gun bearer you cannot do as you like as you are strictly limited to the number and character of beasts you may shoot."

ROBERTA DE JANON, PHILADELPHIA HEIRESS, AND FRED COHEN, WAITER SHE ELOPED WITH.

Roberta de Janon, the sixteen-year-old Philadelphia heiress, who eloped with Fred Cohen, a waiter, aged [illegible] two, and was arrested with him by the police of Chicago, declared when she started for her home that she would stand by Cohen and that he should not be prosecuted for abduction. The girl insisted that she had induced the waiter to leave his wife and elope with her and that she had done so because she dreaded the idea of being sent to a boarding school. Miss de Janon's mother is dead, and for several years she has been living with wealthy grandfather, Robert Dulel, at the fashionable Bellevue-Stratford hotel in Philadelphia. She rebelled at the restraint he threw around her and longed for freedom and a chance to see something of the world. This photograph of Miss de Janon, her pet dog Tootsie and Fred Cohen was taken in Chicago at the time of their arrest.

THEATRICAL MAN SHOT HIS WIFE IN A POLICE STATION.

SHE HAD RUN AWAY WITH ANOTHER MAN AND HER REFUSAL TO RETURN DROVE HIM TO DESPERATION.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 20—No murder case in years has attracted so much attention in this section as is now manifested in the case of Geo. L. Marion, the former theatrical man whose trial for wife murder was called in the Luzerne county court this week. Theatrical people throughout the country have contributed liberally to a fund raised to aid in the defense of the accused man.

On the night of August 16th last, Marion shot and instantly killed his former wife in the office of Chief of Police Long in this city. The victim was Marion's common law wife. After living together for seven years as man and wife, it is alleged that the woman ran away with another man, taking her child with her. Marion traced the couple to Wilkesbarre and found they had been married. He nevertheless adjusted his troubles with the woman and apparently became reconciled to the situation. A conference to settle the matter was held in the office of the chief of police. When the two were left alone Marion, apparently driven to desperation by the refusal of the woman to return to him, drew a revolver and shot her dead.

The victim was formerly Miss Frances Lee, of Zion City, Ill. She and Marion had lived together in Atlanta, Detroit and other cities where Marion was employed as a hotel clerk when not engaged during the summer as a theatrical agent.

One of Daytona's crowning glories is her incomparable beach. No one who ever set foot upon its smooth, packed sands; no one who ever pedaled a bicycle over its expanse; no one who ever drove a prancing pair of horses and listened to the popping of their steel shoes upon its asphaltum-like face; no one who ever steered a high-power automobile down the broad stretch of wave-washed and surf-packed sand but realised that it is a world-beater, a world-wonder. Go stand upon this wide speedway and see the happy souls flit by in joyous mood, and answer whether this is not one of the seven modern wonders.

The Placid, Pellucid Halifax River.

Where think you is water with more picturesque surroundings? Nearly a mile wide, fringed with tropical vegetation, artistic cottages with rooms seemingly looking out upon her bosom, sunny town cities in countless numbers by closing, as it were, to those with red and red; her bosom flecked with duck and coot and snowy-winged sea birds, which sit about as if for the sport of bobbing upon the waves; watch that bitterly old white headed pelican pouch a fat mullet, and that fish hawk struggling upward with his floundering load he snatched from the water.

See the beautiful launches, spick and span, their bunnows and lockers bulging with refreshments both solid and liquid ready for a cruise upon the beautiful surface. Take out your field glass and sweep the river from Seminole bridge to Ponce Park light house, then say whether the Halifax isn't a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and one of the modern wonders.

The Enchantingly Picturesque Ridgewood.

Ridgewood avenue is upon the crest of a broad ridge, straight as the crow flies and the wide spreading branches of the heavy-trunked live oaks extend their giant arms across the beautiful vista, forming an arch, and from these extended arms great festoons of Spanish moss sway as the trade winds from the tropic seas fan them. Looking straight ahead down this white shell street one has the impression of a fairy path with elfish draperies, but as you move along and cast an eye first to the right and then to the left you see distinguished cottage homes in the most delightful settings.

See the glistening leaf of the grand magnolia which nature has vanished as no artists brush ever could; and the cabbage palms with their burdens of white fruit and waving palmetto; see the lovely holly with its waxlike leaf and bright red berries; see the tropic sea grape and the tropic see the stately ingenious lemon which each a root hold on the great oaks and stately palms, and surely you will join in the chorus and say that this is a world worthy for beauty.

Surpassing Beauty of Our Cottage Homes.

No one of Daytona's attractions, perhaps, commands more wealth observed attention and praise than does the artistic cottages. The owners of these charming villas and from every corner of the country and they bring their own architectural plans and build upon them, and, as the architecture of one section of the country differs from the architecture of another, so do our homes differ in outward appearance and structural beauty from one another. There are no continuous rows of strikingly similar buildings but the eye, as it sweeps by, is treated to a kaleidoscopic change which keeps the mind wondering, "What next?"

It is not only the exterior of many of the cottages which excite admiration, within they are models of convenience, and the pleasing and fascinating arrangement of the interior and utilization of those who worked it all out. Indeed, it is the tasteful arrangement and artistic furnishing and shading, more than the exterior appearance, that gives a cottage home its peculiar charm. The best of our lovely cozily residences is another wonder.

Streets and Pavements the Most and Best.

Who the Architect was of the Visitors' chose to give Daytona the most of suitable, the most picturesque natural setting of all the cities of the world is not revealed, but that such is a fact must be apparent to the most superficial observer. With such lavish wealth of natural beauty it became an easy thing for the hand of man to give the finishing touches which have wrought out the colors and outlines of the big picture.

Man did all this in the laying out of the streets with their wide margins of parkage. The entire city becomes a great park, with driveways intersecting miles upon miles of driveways as good as to attract motorists from all over the continent.

And as for the pavements, pavements that look and not like granite, —where else between the eastern and western seas are so many miles in proportion to inhabitants? The pavement question stands with the street as one of the chief drawing cards. Till some upheard of place reports more and better, Daytona throws down the gauntlet to the world.

Squirrels, Flowers, Birds and Fruit.

Whatever one's shortcomings and however indifferent or non callous one may be to many things, the mere mention of "flowers and Squirrels, birds and fruits" will send a thrill that is reflected in distended pupils and pricked ears.

For every visitor with a spare sooner or later there is a bunny ready to come and accept your gift. He will sit bolt upright and know into the most, casting furtive, sassy glances at you meanwhile.

Flowers. Usually fresh and blooming the year 'round. You are reminded of Goldsmith's couplet where

Smiling spring its earliest visit paid
And summer's lingering blossoms are delayed.

In one yard reason of variegated hues predominate; another household has a penchant for the poinsettia and the premises are aflame; another is hidden in a jungle of tall cane. Variety is the spice of life and here is where you find it.

The birds flit in, and with their joyous notes help to give fullness and symmetry to the picture.

Fruits for fruits, choice citrus fruits, Daytona yields the palm to none for quality and quantity per acre. There are scores of citrus groves in proximity to the city, branches bending to the earth with their burdens of luscious golden globes, which for beauty, profiliferr and all desirable qualities would truly astonish you.

The Fastest Autos and The Finest Out.

The seventh world wonder, do you ask? Come, whether from Missouri or from Maine, from Kalamazoo or Timbuctu, and you will be "shown." Here is where the world's record for speed is broken with every returning season. Autos, the fastest, the best and the most are on daily parade and the autoist is as much at home as the most veteran and from the tiller seat of touring wagon to the racing machine sits with unmistakable ease and assurance.

Everything goes, from a 2 horse power to speed from scooter to two-cylinder machine. Here, then, is all degrees of speed from scooter to two-cylinder machine. Here, then, is the place to bring your family and the pleasure and health giving Florida sunshine is free. The finest ocean breezes are free, the birds and squirrels and flowers are free and the sparkling fountain water is free and you will have to go home to your native land only for cash for rent and food and board.

This is the finest picture it is all in. It is drawing other elements and holding them unremitted, it will charm and hold you. Come and see.

SEABREEZE and DAYTONA BEACH, two enterprising and progressive towns on the Halifax Peninsula, are geographically one, although incorporated as separate municipalities. The towns parallel the peninsula north and south for a distance of from three and one-half to four miles, and extend east and west from the surging seas of the Atlantic Ocean to the Halifax River, the beautiful tide-water stream that sets them apart from Daytona with which they have close communication by means of three bridges, as well as a half-hour ferry service.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach are essentially summer and winter resorts and are making hundreds of new friends every year among those who desire to escape the discomforting extremes of heat and cold, and their hotels and boarding houses are now receiving splendid patronage from the most discriminating class of tourists.

The mean average temperature, 80 degrees in the summer and 70 degrees in the winter with an occasional extra rise or drop of a few days' duration, marks this as one of the most healthful locations in any section of the country, north, east, south or west.

The ocean itself, with its marvelous beach, hard as macadam and smooth as a floor, is the greatest attraction, although earth and air and sky seem to have entered into a combination to enhance its every charm. The beach is the famous automobile race course where every world's straight-away record has been made, and all these records it continues to hold without rivalry.

The sand of this famous speedway is composed largely of the shells of the coquina clam, which are about one-half inch long and very thin. For ages Nature has been rolling them up, washing them back into the surf and pulverizing them. Examined under the microscope each particle is rounded, unlike the mortar, builders say, because its smoothness prevents its holding together, yet strange to contemplate, the very moment a wave leaves the wet, apparently soft beach, these round particles settle down into a cement almost as hard as asphalt, beyond the comprehension of one who has not seen it. Repairs are unnecessary, as twice each 24 hours it is entirely rebuilt by the tides. The beach has a width of 300 to 500 feet, and can be used four hours after until two hours before high tide, thus giving an average of seven or eight hours for automobiling some part of each day.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach each have a permanent population of approximately 1500. Sanitary ordinances are strictly enforced, streets and sidewalks are well kept, and new streets are being opened as fast as the increasing population demands. Besides hotels and boarding houses there is ample cottage accommodation for all winter visitors.

Seabreeze contains a handsome opera house and a Congregational Church; at Daytona Beach is a M. E. Church. An excellent high school is situated near the dividing line between the two towns. Such towns have enterprising business establishments, as is evidenced by the advertisements on the left and right.

All the attractions of a Suburban applies to Daytona Beach, the two towns being so closely situated. The developing Daytona Beach has been built on a natural site over an old beach ridge, and there is a scenic beauty possessed. The great sand dunes have been leveled and handsome homes have been built for both winter and all-year-round occupancy. Flowering shrubs have been planted, and are covered with a wealth of bloom in summer and winter.

Work of reclamation on Clarendon hotel property is now in progress, which is to contain 200 rooms, and when completed will be the largest hotel in Florida. The work is constantly north on Florida East Coast Avenue.

The Ocean Front Park is a favorite for bathers and is equipped with bath houses and a pavilion. Bathing suits may be rented at reasonable rates.

One of Daytona's crowning glories is her incomparable beach. No one who ever set foot upon its smooth, packed sands; no one who ever pedaled a bicycle over its expanse; no one who ever drove a prancing pair of horses and listened to the popping of their steel shoes upon its asphaltum-like face; no one who ever steered a high-power automobile down the broad stretch of wave-washed and surf-packed sand but realized that it is a world-beater, a world-wonder. Go stand upon this wide speedway and see the happy souls flit by in joyous mood, and answer whether this is not one of the seven modern wonders.

The Placid, Pellucid Halifax River.

Where think you is water with more picturesque surroundings? Nearly a mile wide, fringed with tropical vegetation, artistic cottages with roomy verandas looking out upon her bosom, gamey food fishes in countless numbers beckoning, as it were, to those with rod and reel; her bosom flecked with duck and coot and snowy-winged sea birds, which sit about as if for the sport of bobbing upon the waves; watch that lubberly old white headed pelican pouch a fat mullet, and that fish hawk struggling upward with his floundering load he snatched from the water.

See the beautiful launches, spick and span, their hampers and lockers bulging with refreshments both solid and liquid ready for a cruise upon th beautiful surface. Take out your fiel glass and sweep the river from Ormondg bride to Ponce Park light house, then say whether the Halifax isn't a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and one of the modern wonders.

The Enchantingly Picturesque Ridgewood.

See the glistening leaf of the grand magnolia which nature has varnished as no artists' brush ever could; and the cabbage palms with their burdens of showy fruit and swaying palms; see the lovely holly with its exquisite berry; see the climbing vines run riot in the trees; see the cryptogamous forms which gain a foothold on the great oaks and stately palms, and surely you will join in the chorus and say that this is a world wonder for beauty .

Surpassing Beauty of Our Cottage Homes.

No one of Daytona's attractions, perhaps, commands more nearly universal attention and praise than does the artisic cottages . Whatever oone's shortcomings and however indifferent or even callous one may be to many things, the mere mention of "flowers and Squirrels, birds and fruits" will send a thrill that is reflected in distended pupils and pricked ears.

For every visitor with a spare goober there is a bunny ready to come and accept your gift. He will sit bolt upright and knaw into the meat, casting furtive, saucy glances at you meanwhile.

Flowers. Usually fresh and blooming the year 'round You are reminded of Goldsmith's couplet where

Here is where the world's record for speed is broken with every recurring season. Autos, the biggest, the fastest, and the finest are on daily parad and the big show is as free as the pure artesian water from the thousands of flowing wells. It is a continuous show with constantly shifting scene.

Everything goes, from a 2-horse power, up to a 200-horse power, and all degrees of speed from acanter to a two-mile-a-minute clip. You will probably catch the spirit, when you do the roads and the beach are yours. The Florida sunshine is free, the balmy ocean breezes are free, the birds and squirrels and flowers are free, the sparkling fountain water is free and you will have to go down into your wallet only for coin for auto, and bed and board.

This is no fanciful picture; it's all here. It is drawing other thousands and holding them enthralled, it will charm and hold you. Come and see.

The Ocean Pier is a great attraction to fishermen and it is lined summer and winter with enthusiastic disciples of Izaak Walton, who find it nothing unusual to land fish weighing several hundred pounds.

PROGRESSIVE NEW SMYRNA

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man runneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by loony forest giants that grew in statelygrandeur during the lapse of bygone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accomodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile. Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicker. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO

Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional garb, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and inlets, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

HAWKS PARK

A pretty village located along the ridge above the Indian River two and one-half miles south of New Smyrna and connected with fine shell roads. There is the appearance of newness, comfort and seclusion about the place which stamps it as the abode of people who come here to enjoy the blessings of outdoor life away from places where crowds are apt to gather.

ORMOND is five miles north of Daytona, located on the western bank of the Halifax River. The location of the town permits of good drainage and perfect sanitation; the elevation is superb and ideal for winter homes. A wide bridge connects Ormond with Ormond Beach.

Many fine residences are maintained on either side of the river, most of them embellished with subtropical flora and shrubbery, besides thrifty orange and other citrus fruit trees.

The town is very cosmopolitan, has an excellent graded school, several churches, a fine public library, up-to-date places of business and comfortable and convenient hotels and boarding houses.

Ormond has many of the Florida attractions—fine fruit, good fishing, excellent automobiling, safe boating, salubrious climate and pleasant walks and drives.

At Ormond Beach is located the large Hotel Ormond, and its lesser sister, Breakers Inn. The former occupies a position overlooking the Halifax River, while the latter has as its outlook the magnificent beach and the broad Atlantic.

The walks in all directions are particularly attractive, and the arbors, shady and inviting spots and romantic nooks are crowded with rustic seats which are mute invitations to enter into the enjoyment thereof.

Besides the broad, smooth ocean beach there are many drives for carriage or automobile—long drives and short drives; drives through groves of golden oranges; drives through dense tropical forests to Spanish ruins; drives to the ancient Causeway built by the slaves of planters of long ago, and drives to the plantations of hospitable settlers, whose places are replete with the interest of Southern fruits and flowers.

One of these interesting plantations is Number Nine, located on the peninsula, five miles south of the Hotel Ormond. Here you see a fine orange grove, together with great varieties of other sub-tropical fruits and flowers.

Five miles further on you come to Moundgrove, one of the finest orange groves in this section of Florida. Moundgrove is on the headwaters of the Halifax River and is amid pretty surroundings. The place is reached by a good road (passing Number Nine) and is a drive all tourists may enjoy.

COTTAGES AND ROOMS TO LET—Furnished; Modern Improvements; Convenient to River. Rent reasonable. Write to M. E. COLBY at Ormond.

PORT ORANGE is a pretty little village situated five miles south of Daytona on the Daytona-New Smyrna hard-surface road, the scenic highway of the East Coast. The town is located on the Halifax River, over which spans a bridge from the town to the peninsula opposite.

The town is well laid out and has many pretty homes owned and occupied by residents and winter tourists. It has several churches, one of the best graded schools in Volusia county, two general stores, a real estate agency and two or three hotels.

A large number of tourists and winter residents make Port Orange winter headquarters, one of the several attractions being the excellent fishing. Port Orange is in the orange belt and a number of very fine citrus groves are nearby, where oranges, tangerines and grape-fruit hang in profusion. Some of the best trucking land in the State is to be found thereabout and excellent crops are raised.

West of Port Orange a short distance are the remains of the old Dunlawton sugar mill, a spot that is visited every year by hundreds of tourists. At one time all the country west of Port Orange, surrounding the old mill, was a vast sugar-cane and indigo plantation. The mill was operated extensively in those days but has been in disuse for thirty or forty years.

A pretty automobile or carriage drive from Daytona is via the ocean beach to the approach of the Port Orange bridge, across the bridge and then passing through Port Orange to the ruins of the celebrated old sugar mill, returning to Daytona by the road on the mainland. This drive affords a very pleasing variety of scenery.

DeLAND, the county seat of Volusia County, is situated 23 miles southwest of Daytona and is reached from the latter city by an excellent hard-surface road recently constructed.

At DeLand is located the John B. Stetson University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South. Because of the interest in matters educational DeLand is known as "The Athens of Florida."

Stetson University has a faculty of 50 professors and instructors. There are over $400,000 in buildings and equipment; nearly $500,000 endowment; a Carnegie Library alone representing an investment in building, endowment and books, of more than $120,000. The library is the United States Government depository for the State of Florida, and contains over 15,000 volumes. Science Hall, one of the newest of 18 buildings, with its furnishings, represents an outlay of $60,000. Elizabeth Hall is one of the most beautiful college buildings in the South.

The city has a population of about 3,500, with a thickly settled country adjacent. DeLand proper is five miles east of the St. Johns River, on the high, rolling pine land of the great "Orange Ridge" of Florida.

The predominating products are oranges and grapefruit, the estimated crop from this vicinity being over 300,000 boxes this year. Grapes, peaches, pears, Japan persimmons, plums, pecans, guavas, strawberries and other fruits are grown in plenty.

In the way of public improvements are many miles of fine shell roads, an excellent high school, electric lights, a system of waterworks that is owned and operated by the city, supplying the purest water at little cost.

Nine houses of worship testify that DeLand is a church-going community. Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists (Northern and Southern), Presbyterians, Christians and Catholics, besides colored Baptists and Methodists, are represented.

The graded school offers a ten years' course, and the building which it occupies is newly furnished throughout, and is one of the most commodious and best equipped public schools in the State.

The trip from Daytona to DeLand is made by automobile in a little over an hour, and there are many pretty drives in the vicinity of the county site. A good road leads to DeLeon Springs, five miles, a historic spot, where 60,000 gallons of water bubble from the earth every minute.

From DeLand automobiles go south to Osteen, 18 miles, on shell and marl roads; the St. Johns is crossed by ferry near Osteen and cars can then continue to Sanford and Orlando by hard road. There is a shell road from DeLand to Orange City, five miles, and a good road from DeLand to Lake Helen, a like distance.

ORANGE CITY

The principal attraction around Orange City is the many handsome golden orange groves. The town is supplied with water said to be the purest in the world, another attraction to visitors. PROGRESSIVE NEW SMYRNA

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one ot the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man runneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by hoary forest giants that grew in stately grandeur during the lapse of bygone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accomodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile. Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicker. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil.. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO

Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional garb, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and islands, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

ORANGE CITY

The principal attraction around Orange City is the many handsome golden orange groves. The town is supplied with water said to be the purest in the world, another attraction to visitors. It is at Orange City that passengers over the Florida East Coast Ry. transfer to carriages and drive to Deland. The town is surrounded by land peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of citrus fruits.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Jan. 29—The stork visited Mr. Corbett's house and left them another little daughter last week.

Last Thursday there was a quiet wedding at the home of John Yelvington, west of town when his daughter, Miss Mamie, was married to Roy McDonald, son of Lafayette McDonald. We wish the young people much happiness.

Mrs. Will Carter and Mrs. John Harris, of Southern Illinois, drove in Mrs. Carpers auto Friday, to show Mr. Harris what a pretty village we have and to make a few calls.

Elton Dupont has opened an ice cream parlor and confectionary store corner of Ridgewood and Dunlawton avenues.

One of our most respected and prominent citizens died very suddenly Friday night of last week at his home on Ridgewood avenue. The funeral took place Tuesday so as to allow time for one of their sons to come. One resides in Daytona and one in Orlando. They both got home in time to see their father laid to rest in Port Orange cemetery. We will miss Mr. Smith very much, as he always met you with a hearty greeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt and family returned Friday from a cruise south, going as far as Miami in their launch.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggard son and daughter and granddaughter, arrived from Frankfort, Ind., and are at home in Mrs. Lyon's cottage on Ridgewood avenue.

A Revolutionary Puzzle.

These odd rhymes were written in the early part of the Revolutionary war—about 1776. If read as written they are a tribute to the king and his army, but if read downward on either side of the comma they indicate an unmistakable spirit of rebellion to both king and parliament. The author is unknown:

Hark, hark the trumpet sounds, the din of war's alarms
O'er seas and solid grounds, doth call us all to arms,
Who for King George doth stand, their bosoms warm and shine,
Their ruin is at hand, who with the congress join.
The acts of parliament, in them I much delight,
I hate their cursed intent, who for the congress fight.
The Tories of the day, they are my daily food,
They soon will sneak away, who independence boast,
Who supersitant hold, they have my hand and heart,
May they for slavery be sold, who are the Whigerish part.
On Mansfield, North and Bute, may daily Confusion and dispute, on congress ever stop,
To North and brither lord, may honors still be done,
I wish a block and cord, to General Washington.

—National Magazine.

The Dazzling Searchlight.

On a dark night no warship would be safe from torpedo attack but for the searchlight. The full moon lights up a torpedo boat so that it can be fired at when nearly a mile away. To produce the same illumination with the most powerful artificial light an electric arc of 100,000 candle power placed three-quarters of a mile high would be needed if the aid of mirrors were not available. But with this light and an ingenious arrangement of mirrors it is possible to surpass the moon. Searchlights are now made which throw light a distance of sixty-three miles, but objects can be seen only a few miles from the source of the light. The effect on the enemy is most bewildering. When the bright beam is suddenly thrown on the eye the pupil contracts violently; when the beam is removed the eye can see nothing. If this be repeated a few times it takes all the nerve out of a man, so that only the best trained and most courageous can continue the attack.—London Answers.

A Disappointing Witness.

Deacon Stephen Potter, one of the pioneers of Utica, N. Y., was a man of great eccentricity, but high moral character. "The deacon will speak the truth and shame the devil," was often said of him.

On one occasion a friend was engaged in a lawsuit in regard to some land a few miles from Utica. He held the land at a high price. During the trial he called Deacon Potter as a witness to prove how valuable the land was. The deacon was sworn and asked if he knew the land.

"Yes," he replied, "I know every foot of it."

"What do you think it worth, Mr. Potter?" was the next question.

The old man paused a moment and then said slowly: "If I had as many dollars—as my yoke of oxen—could draw—on a sled—on grass ice—I vow—I would not give—a dollar an acre for it!"—Youth's Companion.

Flag Proportions.

In the United States flag the width of a stripe is invariably half the length in inches of the flag's longest measurement. For example, in a flag ten feet long the stripes should be five inches wide. Accordingly the flag would have a width of five feet five inches, or thirteen times five inches. The field should be of navy blue bunting measuring seven stripes deep and extending two-fifths across the length of the flag. There should be forty-six stars on the field arranged in six rows, beginning with eight, the two middle rows having eight and the last row eight and the other rows seven. The size of the star at its widest measurement should be one-half of its own width will separate it from the next star. Flags may be made in all sizes, but the above proportions should be preserved.—Philadelphia Press.

Cat Exchange In Paris.

Paris has a cat exchange, a "bourse aux chats." This establishment is situated in a big cloudset at the rear of a wineshop. Here are legions of cats of all sizes and colors, which are to be seen jumping and heard "miauling." It is said that the customers are by no means tender hearted cat ladies, but for the most part furriers, glovemakers and cooks. A good sleek "matou" realizes from 2½ cents to 20 cents. The skin has a number of usages, and the flesh, according to the story, finds its way into the stewpans of certain restaurants possessing more enterprise than scruple.—Chicago Journal.

Two of a Kind.

Mrs. Boggs—I hate to have a man always complaining about some little thing. Now, my husband is continually harping on the lace curtains. Mrs. Waggs—Yes, and my husband has been kicking on our front door every morning at 8 o'clock for the past twenty years.—Puck.

Kept Him Busy.

"You haven't had time to make any friends? Then you have had a busy day." "Not on your life. I've managed to make some lively enemies."—Cleveland Leader.

A Hard Job.

Willie—Papa, there's a big black bug on the ceiling. Papa (busy reading)—Well, step on it and don't bother me.—Boston Transcript.

To make laws complete they should reward as well as punish.—Goldsmith.

BUOY FOR MARKING SUNKEN SHIPS.

A patent buoy for marking the location of sunken vessels is the latest device adopted by marine insurance and salvage companies. Many coasting vessels in Europe are now equipped with this novel appliance. It is made of steel and is so arranged that it will float at all times. The buoy is fastened to the deck of the vessel by a chain wound around a windlass and seeks the surface as soon as the ship is submerged. The buoy is large enough to lift several tons of chain and will float even though the ship turns turtle.

NEW AMMUNITION.

By MILTON W. TOWNE.

[Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.]

One day shortly after the close of the American civil war a small fleet of United States wooden men-of-war was lying at anchor in the harbor of Cherbourg. It was a gala day, for Napoleon III., then emperor of France, and the Empress Eugenie were in Cherbourg and had accepted an invitation from the admiral to visit his flagship. But before doing so the Imperial couple inspected a French man-of-war.

Now, it so happened that a mess cook on board the French ship, the Esperance, was wholly unmindful of the important ceremony that was about to take place. Indeed, his captain had not considered it necessary to inform him. It would have been better had he done so. His failure resulted in a bitter feeling between the crews of the Esperance and the flagship of the American admiral.

Not knowing that the emperor and empress were about to come aboard the Esperance, Francois, a little bit of a sawed off Frenchman, with a tiny goatee and mustache to match, was cleaning knives, forks and spoons on the gun deck.

But, suddenly looking up, he saw Lieutenant Du Bois coming from the other end of the vessel. Francois knew by the bells that struck at the time that the lieutenant was going off duty and would go, as was his custom, to his cabin for a change of uniform. To reach his cabin he would be obliged to pass the point where the cook sat scouring. Francois, not caring to incur an officer's displeasure for performing his menial duty on deck, hurriedly threw the table articles into a mess pot, stepped to the muzzle of a ten inch gun, took out the tampion—the wooden plug kept in the mouths of cannon when not in use—thrust in the mess kit and put the tampion back in its place. When the lieutenant came by Francois was standing respectfully at attention.

"Francois," said the officer, "bring some biscuits and a glass of wine to my cabin."

"Yes, Monsieur le Lieutenant."

"Well, hurry. I have but little time before the ceremony takes place."

At the word ceremony Francois took fright. Ceremony meant salutes. He did not wish to leave the mess kit in the gun for fear the latter would be sighted for saluting purposes and the kit would be lost. But the lieutenant glared at him, and he dare not delay. He went below, carried the biscuit to Lieutenant Du Bois' cabin and was about to hurry back on deck when another officer, seeing him go by his open door, directed him to bring him a glass of wine. And so it was that the little cook was kept hurrying to do the bidding of one person after another till something happened.

The officer of the deck, seeing a crowd gathering at the dock, raised his glasses and, after a moment's inspection, cried out, "The emperor is coming." In a few minutes a barge left the dock, and poor Francois, still running about below, heard the guns above begin to boom in salute.

Now, it happened that several petty officers, including Pat Donagan, on board the American admiral's flagship, had secured permission to bring aboard their sweethearts—at least their vice sweethearts—and the party were enjoying themselves, when suddenly the air filled with flying knives, forks and spoons. In another moment they heard the boom of a gun. A fork stuck in a girl's cheek, a knife cut off a man's nose, and Pat Donagan received an injury which cost him an eye.

All knew that the Esperance in saluting the emperor and empress had accidentally fired a volley of ordnance at the American flagship. Pat Donagan, who was a gunner, load with pain and the indignity of a wounded with a horse knife, swore he would have revenge.

It was late in the afternoon when the emperor's barge was seen approaching the flagship. Donagan was in the outside watch. The barge took on two more passengers in the shape of Francois and Lieutenant Du Bois, and Pat had secured and took position at his gun, which pointed toward the Esperance. Pat trained it on the galley of that ship and waited. He purposely forgot sponging the gun, which he left in the hands of his crew.

Presently the emperor's barge was seen heading toward the flagship. Guns began to boom from the other lands played the yards to be manned. When it came Pat Donagan's turn to fire his gun the report was a few moments late. He was taking a sight. Presently he fired, and a trophy went flying into the waters of the harbor.

The imperial visit was a short one, the hour being late. The imperial couple departed amid a shuttle of cheers that had attended their arrival. They had been gone but a few minutes when through the smoke that hung over the water a group of officers standing on the quarterdeck observed a boat coming from the Esperance.

On the gun deck below stood a man, literally "with blood in his eye." He was Pat Donagan. He thought he could surmise the errand on which the boat was coming and watched it with grim satisfaction. As it came nearer an officer in full uniform was descried sitting in the stern. When under the gun deck of the flagship arrived, bowed, took off his hat and said with great politeness:

"The officers of the Esperance are ever much obliged for the honor paid our emperor, but you killed a cook."

Donagan gave a grunt of satisfaction.

HIS ASSURANCE.

By CUTHBERT BAKER.

[Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.]

Carstairs, though a gentleman, had the most unbounded assurance, and his resource was not less. He was very fond of telling how he got into places where there was no admittance except for a favored few and got out of scrapes simply by his unmitigated nerve.

In Paris he had secured an interview with the president of the French republic by dashing up to the Elysee palace in an automobile, alighting and stalking past the guards and attendants as though he were some immensely important personage, and having thus gained the ear of the president secured a valuable concession.

When Carstairs went to Naples friends he met there warned him, as strangers are always warned, against the dishonesty and trickery of the Neapolitans. "Why," said one fresh American importation, "I go out with 20 francs in my pocket, spend 5 and return to my hotel with 3. How they do it I don't know." Carstairs replied that he would never fail to count his change and therefore he couldn't lose anything.

Carstairs had spent so much time in northern Italy—he owned a villa on Lake Como—that he spoke Italian like a native. While in Naples he decided to give a dinner to a number of friends at the Hotel Murat, on the day of the dinner and just before the hour it was to take place there came up a sudden heavy shower. Carstairs wore a silk hat and also evening dress under a thin overcoat and had no umbrella. There are plenty of cabs in Naples, but every one in that neighborhood was appropriated by persons caught in the shower. Carstairs stood in the vestibule of a shop. Looking at his watch, he saw that it was within five minutes of the hour set for his dinner party. Seeing a well dressed man go by with an umbrella in the direction which he himself wanted to go, his resource and inventive power came to the front. Hailing the man, overtook him and slipped his hand on the man's arm familiarly and said:

"What luck! I've been looking for you all over the city. I have great news for you. Signorina Bindi has given me a message for you which she would intend to no one else, knowing that you are my most intimate friend and I am yours."

The man started to interrupt, but Carstairs gave him no opportunity.

"She regrets exceedingly," he went on, "her treatment of you and wishes to make amends. But her parents are very watchful. She wishes you to meet her in the park, or, rather, at the sea wall opposite the park, tomorrow evening just before dark. She will walk from north to south, while you are to walk in the opposite direction, starting at exactly 7 o'clock. If the weather is pleasant and the sea smooth have a boat at the center steps. She fears to meet some one who knows her, so she will be disguised, but you will know her by a flower that she will carry in her left hand.

"There, you lucky dog, you should consider yourself under undying obligations to me for consenting to bear the message. Had I not loved you so well I would not have done it, nor would the signorina have intrusted me with her confidence."

At this juncture the two reached the Hotel Murat, and Carstairs, with a "Goodby, dear boy! I wish you a pleasant boat ride tomorrow evening with your sweetheart," ran into the doorway.

The guests were assembled and all sat down to dinner. Carstairs was in high good humor. Out of the evening was something at hand, resolved to change those conditions to his advantage.

"Signor," said the unfortunate gentleman, "have I insulted you in any way? If so, I humbly ask your pardon."

"Oh, you must know best what you've been doing," said Carstairs, "but I'll be content with half a dozen words. I must think their sanity, and the way to do that is to be with a woman who is about to desert me."

And I could tell of how he held several cuts out of umbrella.

"But the fun would have surpassed that you had made a memorandum of marked one of the party, and that was Miss Bell to whom I owed the gift."

"Ah, you don't know the Italians! They are so full of romance that they do love quickness enjoyed the matter as much as if it were his own."

"Your self possession is unfortunate, Carstairs," said one of his friends, "and your notable is worthy an undershirt left out. You should have looked in a mirror before sitting down to dinner."

Carstairs put his hand to his shirt front, where he wore two diamond studs for which he had recently paid $500 each. They were both gone. A pang of pain, for he always kept the pocket where he kept his wallet. It was not there. It had outlasted fate. It was not the loss of the studs or the money that affected Carstairs; it was the fact that he had been "had" by an Italian upon whom he thought he was playing an innocent joke. The expression on his face was one of shamefacedness.

"What is it, old man?" asked a friend.

"What is it, dog, I have given two diamond studs and 2,000 lire for the use of that umbrella."

For a few moments no one looked sorry, simply sympathetic. Then the ludicrous side of the adventure got the better of the party, and all burst into laughter.

"My friends," said Carstairs, having recovered himself and raising his glass, "here's to the Neapolitans, the prestidigitators of the world!"

It was late in the afternoon when the emperor's barge was seen approaching the flagship. Donagan was in the saluting squad. The surgeon had ordered him to remain in his bunk, with his eye bandaged, but Pat had escaped and took position at his gun, which pointed toward the Esperance. Pat trained it on the galley of that ship and waited. He purposely forgot something, the tampion, which he left in the muzzle of his gun.

Presently the emperor's barge was seen heading toward the flagship. Guns began to boom from the sides; bands played; the yards were manned. Dashing out from cover, he slipped his hand on the man's arm familiarly and said:

The man started to interrupt, but Carstairs gave him no opportunity.

The guests were assembled and all sat down to dinner. Carstairs was in high good humor. One of the company was smarting at having received in change three counterfeit five franc pieces.

"Never," said the unfortunate person, "have I mingled with a people so tricky as the Neapolitans."

"Oh, you don't know how to handle them," said Carstairs. "If you wish to be immune from being robbed you must tickle their vanity, and the way to do that is to tell a man of some woman who is dying for him."

And Carstairs told of how he had secured the use of an umbrella.

"But the man must have supposed that you had made a mistake," remarked one of the party. "He could have had no interest in this girl."

"Ah, you don't know the Italians! They are so full of romance that the fellow doubtless enjoyed the matter as much as if it were his own."

"Your shirt bosom is unbuttoned, Carstairs," said one of his friends, "and your necktie is away up under your left ear. You should have looked in a mirror before sitting down to dinner."

GREAT CROWD
AT LYMAN'S STORE

In the case Mrs. J. R. Parker who is located in one of the F. E. R. Bennett's cottages on Richmond avenue, received the chime. Between fifty and a hundred people were at the store.

Two previous Wednesdays, Mrs. G. W. Reh, of Kingston, carried off the "dinner sets."

MANY MENTIONABLES;
FEW ENTHUSIASTS.

"Many are called and most are fooled." At least very few seem to warm up as aldermanic candidates for the election to be held Feb. 5th.

Among those who have been suggested within the fourths of the Daily News are: J. L. Walling, W. M. Hankins, L. G. Lyman, H. Klaesie, John Ash, A. P. Jones, E. P. Conrad, Chas. Dougherty, S. H. Matthews and one Tom Tidden.

PASSED DOWN RIVER TODAY

A small side-wheel steamer passed down the river about ten today, creating considerable comment among those who saw her, as a boat of the description is somewhat out of the ordinary at the present time although twenty-five years ago boats with side wheels were the common thing. It was the first steamer of any description to pass down the river in a number of years.
